SOCIAL CURRENCY

The Parenting Chair

Parents, teach your children.

Proverbs 1:8-9 (ESV)

Hear, my son, your father's instruction, and forsake not your mother's teaching, ⁹for they are a graceful garland for your head and pendants for your neck.

Proverbs 6:20-23 (ESV)

My son, keep your father's commandment, and forsake not your mother's teaching. ²¹Bind them on your heart always; tie them around your neck. ²²When you walk, they will lead you; when you lie down, they will watch over you; and when you awake, they will talk with you. ²³For the commandment is a lamp

Proverbs 6:20-23 (ESV)

and the teaching a light, and the reproofs of discipline are the way of life.

Parents, teach your children.

1. What to teach
2. How to teach

“Parents often get sidetracked with behavior. If your goal in discipline is changed behavior, it is easy to understand why this happens. The thing that alerts you to your child’s need for correction is his behavior. Behavior irritates and thus calls attention to itself. Behavior becomes your focus. You think you have corrected when you have changed unacceptable behavior to behavior that you sanction and appreciate... 'What's the problem?' you ask.

The problem is this: Your child's needs are far more profound than aberrant behavior."

—Ted Tripp

“If the worship and praise of God warms you heart and you find relationships with God’s people satisfying and refreshing, and you love nothing more than to use your energy, time, resources and creativity to benefit the body of Christ – then your children will have a perspective from which to admire and appreciate God’s family. You cannot secure their membership in this family through yours, but your recruitment skills will be a primary tool in the Spirit's work in their heart."
